

We're maintaining our 2020 prices until December 2021

Over the past year, schools and educational establishments have had to contend with the continuing challenges posed by the COVID-19 pandemic. We hope you; your families, students and colleagues have kept well and safe throughout these extraordinary times.

We appreciate the ongoing uncertainty around the world and have been looking for ways we can help. Having spoken to customers and partners, we understand that school budgets remain challenged. To help your budgets go further, we are maintaining our 2020 prices until December 2021.

What does this mean for you? Simply that your current Findel family of brands catalogues will remain valid until December 2021 and we won't be sending updated ones as usual; please keep your existing catalogues.

Our catalogues are also available as digital versions, ensuring you can access them whenever you need and wherever in the world you are.

New educational resources to inspire and excite

Whilst the world has changed considerably over the past year, we appreciate that you are still looking to inspire and excite the next generation. To help you achieve this, we're proud to bring you two new ranges from Hope Education and Philip Harris.

Our Curriculum Must-Haves from Hope Education contains over 180 new and innovative resources that deliver your chosen curriculum whilst encouraging a love of learning. We've worked closely with our experts to develop products that will make a difference in your classroom. And don't forget, every product we create is inspired, tested and loved by teachers.

Our Philip Harris 2021 Highlights contains everything you need to enthuse those budding scientists. It's packed full of laboratory favourites which have stood the test of time as well as our latest innovations including SensorDisc™, the market leading solution for all your data logging needs.

There's even more resources and equipment available online!

The Findel family of brands has been providing innovative resources to International schools across the world for years. Over this time, we've developed thousands of new products to help schools and our range now includes over 30,000 resources and equipment.

Our range covers everything from maths, English and computing to early years, science, sport and special educational needs. What's more, to make it easier to get the resources you need, you can find all our products on our website.

We've also expanded the information we hold around our products, introducing Reasons to Love and Learning Outcomes. Written by teachers for teachers, these new additions give handy hints and tips on getting the most out of a resource and give you added peace of mind that the resource will meet your needs.

Gary Bond, Senior International Sales Manager for Findel Education, commented:

"This year has been an extraordinary year for International schools across the world. They have shown their resilience time and time again throughout the COVID-19 crisis and their hard work and dedication has to be admired. We appreciate that things remain tricky and whilst vaccine developments continue apace, we understand that school budgets remain challenged. That's why we've made the decision to maintain our existing 2020 prices right through to December 2021, helping schools stretch their budgets further in difficult times."

To find out more information on any of the above, speak to your local sales manager, Gary Bond today.